BRANDING GUIDE

PREPARED FOR: ASHWORTH
LOCATION: LITTLE RIVER, NC

An organic juice and smoothie bar in a small North Carolina town. Real character and a good product, held back by a dated, inconsistent look. This guide sets out how the Panacea Junkiez wordmark, palette, and type work together so the brand reads the same on every cup, storefront, and screen.

USAGE

Green is the base so let it carry storefronts, cups, and full-bleed panels. Gold is the wake-up: signage, one word in a headline, the thing you want a hand to reach for. Never flood a layout with gold; it stops working the moment everything is loud. Cream keeps type and packaging breathing, and Ink handles small text and fine print. The ramp fills in borders and quieter surfaces in between.

PAIRINGS IN USE

Gineso sets the headlines and product names; Interstate Condensed carries body copy and captions. Keep the pairing consistent so every tag, post, and sign reads as one voice.
